Office of International Education OIE Start-up Awards for New Programs

The Office of International Education is pleased to offer Study Abroad Start-up Awards to support two faculty-led study abroad experiences offered for the first time this coming summer 2023. Funding of $10,000 is available to support the implementation of each of the two new programs. The purpose of this funding is to reduce costs paid by students to participate in study abroad experiences.

- Funding is for study abroad experiences that have not been implemented previously at Morehouse College. Eligible programs are those being offered for the first time at the College.
- Faculty from all disciplines are encouraged to apply.
- Faculty are required to submit a proposal to the Education Abroad Committee (EAC) by the required due date of October 15, 2022.
- Proposals should clearly indicate that the proposed program is being implemented for the first time and that the faculty member is requesting a Study Abroad Start-up Award. No additional application is required.
- Applications are submitted through the Morehouse College Education Abroad website. Instructions for applications are also available on the website: <https://studyabroad.morehouse.edu/>
- The Education Abroad Committee will review and rank all proposals and make funding recommendations.
- $10,000 will be awarded for each selected program. Funding must be used to defray costs paid by students to participate in the study abroad experience.
- Students participating in study abroad programs funded by the Study Abroad Start-up Award are not eligible for the Delta Airlines Study Abroad Award ($500/student). However, students are eligible for the Julian Grace Award of $500 for participating in Social Justice-focused experiences.
- Travel must take place during the summer 2023 and include a minimum of 8 students.
- Faculty leaders are eligible to receive the Delta funded coordinator and chaperone stipends for a total of $2,500 per experience.
