2021 Spring and Summer Education Abroad Programs FAQs

Q: Is Morehouse planning to operate programs abroad during the Spring and the Summer of 2021?

A: Yes. We plan to operate programs abroad for the Spring and Summer of 2021. The safety of our students and faculty is our top priority. We continue to monitor the COVID-19 pandemic closely and follow the guidance from the CDC and the US Department of State. Although we may adjust to new safety guidelines, we plan to operate the Spring Semester Programs through our providers and the 2021 summer faculty-led programs as well.

Q. If my 2021 Summer Faculty-led study abroad program is canceled before departure, will I get a refund for the charges paid to my program?

A: The Office of International Education will determine a date to assess program viability based on the information available at that point in time. If cancellation occurs before non-refundable funds are due, students will not lose the money amount paid to the program. However, personal expenses incurred by students such as costs for visas, airfare, and other items cannot be refunded as they are not included in the program fee.

Q. What are the application deadlines for Spring and Summer Programs?

Our contracted providers such as Arcadia University, CAPA, CIEE IES and ISEP have their own deadlines. Please check their websites and attend their Virtual Information Sessions for Morehouse College to find additional information. Please use our website: <https://studyabroad.morehouse.edu/> to search for programs corresponding to your interests.

Morehouse faculty-led programs set the deadlines for each program. Please contact the faculty leaders and pay attention to the advertised deadlines.
