Morehouse Students: Go and Study Abroad in Africa and South America!

Charles B. Rangel International Affairs Summer Enrichment Program

The Charles B. Rangel International Affairs Summer Enrichment Program is a six-week summer program. It provides undergraduate students with a deep appreciation of current issues and trends in international affairs, a greater understanding of career opportunities in international affairs, and the enhanced knowledge and skills to pursue such careers.

This program encourages applications from minority groups historically underrepresented in the Foreign Service, women, and those with financial need.

The Program has two major components. First, the Program provides two courses and a seminar that focuses on U.S. foreign policy and writing skills to enhance participants' academic preparation to work in international affairs.

Second, the Program introduces participants to a wide range of government and non-government professionals working on global issues. It also arranges visits to various institutions involved in international affairs in order to provide greater insight into the foreign policy-making process and international affairs careers.

The Program covers the costs for tuition, travel, housing, and two meals per day. It also provides a stipend of $3,200.

The Internationalized Syllabus: How to Structure Global and Intercultural Courses

The drive to internationalize higher education has seen the focus shift in recent years towards its defining element, the curriculum. As the point of connection between institutional goals and the student experience, the curriculum plays a key role in developing mindful global citizenship and intercultural competencies for students. Internationalized courses are the building blocks of an internationalized curriculum, and your syllabus sets the parameters and expectations for how your students will prepare to navigate a complex and interconnected world. This workshop covers the elements of an internationalized course as well as strategies for structuring international and intercultural content, activities, and learning outcomes in your syllabus. Dr. Denise Callejas, our AYCGL International Education Fellow, will lead the session and provide individual support to faculty members who wish to design or modify an existing course. Faculty interested in sharing their new or modified syllabus will have their work highlighted on the AYCGL website to represent the latest efforts to expand and to empower the Morehouse student's worldview.

3:00-5:00, March 10, 2021 Wed.
